History Of Trafalgar Castle

Built in 1859 by the flamboyant Sheriff of Ontario County, Nelson Gilbert "Iron" Reynolds, Trafalgar Castle remains a unique Canadian treasure. Designed by the Toronto architect Joseph Sheard, the Castle was built of Limestone and stone in the Elizabethan style. It boasts 15 towers, secret passageways, a tunnel to Lake Ontario, and was reputed to have cost an astounding $70,000. Guarded by the stone Trafalgar Lions, the main entrance doors of solid oak lead into a wide hallway some 105 feet long. This central hall faces a massive carved oak staircase dominated by four magnificent stained glass windows incorporating the Arms of England, Scotland, Canada, and the Reynolds families. There were 73 separate apartments and many of the materials and furnishings were imported from Europe. The Castle was lit by gaslight, manufactured in its own gashouse on the extensive grounds. Some of the fine marble fireplaces were carved by Jonathon Wolfenden of Whitby. Nelson Reynolds fathered twenty four children with two wives. An officer in the 11th Lancers of England, Nelson Reynolds was elected to the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada. He prospered as the President of the Marmora Foundry, and was involved in banking, mercantile business, railroads and shipping. During their years in residence, the Reynolds lived and entertained lavishly. The glittering receptions and balls made Trafalgar Castle the centre of society and numbered among its guests, the Prince Arthur, third son of Queen Victoria, and later, the Duke of Connaught, who became Governor General of Canada. Beset with financial difficulties, Reynolds was forced to sell his dream home to the Methodist Church. In 1874 Trafalgar Castle became the Ontario Ladies' College, an exclusive residential school for young ladies. Nelson Reynolds served on the Board of Directors until his death in 1881. More than 100 years later, O.L.C. was renamed Trafalgar Castle School, and remains to this day a school for young ladies.

Principal's Message

As once again I sit down to write my message for the yearbook, I pause to consider what exactly is the purpose of this important publication. Interestingly enough, this has been the topic of some discussion in recent weeks.

Perhaps I should begin by saying what the yearbook is not. It is not a record of everything that happened during the school year. To include everything would be difficult to do, make for a ridiculously thick volume and would cost the sky. It is therefore necessary that the editor make choices of what to include: an even balance of good and bad, serious and silly?

Again I think not. Although our failures are real enough to us at the time, it seems self-defeating to publish them so that in a sense we can experience a double jeopardy of suffering. Were we publishing a community newspaper, or even a school newspaper, that would be a different matter. That is not what we are about here.

No, in my view this yearbook should reflect our achievements, our victories, the things we want to remember, the very best of what we are and what we have been. This task should be carried out as accurately and fully as time, space and budget permit; leave the disappointments and the controversies to the fading dust of memory. Let this precious book pass on to its readers a shining record of our triumphs and our ideas. Remember that it is not just written for the present; future generations will scan these pages in search of not only the truth, but our dearest dreams. Let's give them a polished performance, not an ill-formed rehearsal.

C.T.C. Kamcke

Vice-Principal's Message

Dear Students,

As I write this letter, many of you are still writing your final examinations. For those of you graduating this year, new experiences and challenges lie ahead as you complete this stage in your educational career.

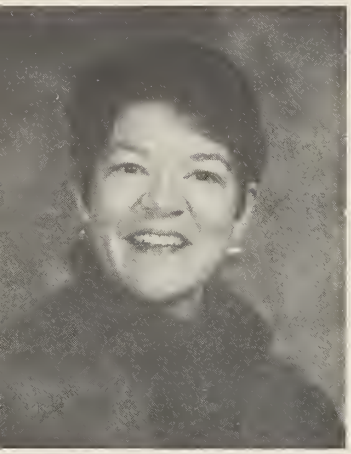
You will have many memories of your time here at Trafalgar and one of them may be singing Mr. McClure's favourite hymn in chapel, "I feel the winds of God today." I have often wondered if you liked it as much as I do! You certainly sang it like you did! According to the hymn writer, when we are born we are launched in a boat from a safe shore. Our life's journey is across a fickle sea and in the end we arrive again at a safe harbour on the other shore. The journey is often arduous. Each day "we lift our sails" and head into unknown winds and changeable seas. To all of you, and especially to the graduates, I would like to encourage you each day to "set your sails" and "brave another cruise." Enjoy your journey! Be confident in yourself and in your abilities. Draw on your experiences, your faith, your friends and your family. Persevere when the going gets tough. When the seas get rough, remember the encouraging and inspirational words of this hymn.

Finally, to the graduates, I wish you every success in your future endeavours. Stay in touch with us here at Trafalgar and keep us informed about your "adventures on the high seas!"

Yours sincerely

Mr. J. Brian McClure

Dean's Message



Last year when I wrote my message for Vox Collegii, I attempted to write from a futuristic point of view; this year I thought I would like to speak to you from the past. What must it have been like to be the Dean at Trafalgar Castle (then Ontario Ladies College) in 1892? There are some aspects I know about that I think I would have liked very much. I rather like the idea of all the boarders taking an afternoon nap on Sundays while the Assistant Dean builds a nice fire for me in my marble fireplace in my spacious living room and we sit by the warm hearth and share a pot of tea. How very civilized. I know how much many of you would like an afternoon nap during the school week but never on Sunday! I like the idea of having someone ring the big bell in the Bell Tower as they used to daily at 5:00 p.m. to summon the girls back from their afternoon activities working on the school farm, horseback riding or walking leisurely through the large college grounds.

I have a hard time imagining any boarder, however, coping with what was once the daily task of emptying the mouse traps in her room. And I don't know how anyone coped with the harsh winters and the dim lighting inside these castle walls one hundred years ago. We had a hint of what it must have been like the evening the power went out this past April and we held a memorable candlelit Chapel with the Rotary Choir.

We like to think that the quality of life has improved with time. Today we even have electric lights on timers that come on automatically at dusk. The heat blasts out of the radiators (in some rooms!) at dawn so the chill of a long winter's night is gone by the time the rising bell rings. We have Archy instead of mouse traps. But while we have gained much, we have also lost. What we could all envy perhaps was the leisurely pace which we have replaced with haste and stress and pressure. There was a gentility, indeed a civility that we have lost in our struggle to be recognized as equal individuals in the workplace. In a crowded, competitive world, we seem to look out less for each other in our pursuit of looking out for number one.

In truth, I would not trade today for yesterday. I am too fond of the amenities and conveniences of modern living. I like my VCR, my new CDs, and my CAR. But I would like to think that each one of us has the capacity within ourselves to retain some of the better things about a time gone by. That is, after all one of the greatest benefits of examining the past. Despite the demands of a busy world, can we not still be dignified, civil and concerned? That is the beauty of a school like Trafalgar Castle which has so much history behind it and so many people who remain connected to the school over its long history to help with our transition from one generation to another and to remind us about what was, teach us what is and prepare us for what yet may be.

When I was young, I thought that every year would be better than the last. That was my definition of progress. Grade four would be better than grade three which I hated — and that was true, being 30 would be better than being 29. Not true. Each year on this earth is not necessarily better than the one before. I find that the strangest thing. Why don't things just get better and better? Why can't we just keep on improving what we already have? Why does life seem to get harder for some people instead of easier? Why can't we all get along with each other forever? After some few thousand years you'd think we'd have learned how to do that by now.

My point is that life is change. And I am glad that life is change even though very often there is a trade off. For everything we gain, there is often an incalculable loss. I am glad that Trafalgar Castle has made so much progress over the years, but I wish we still had a hundred acres of land and afternoon naps. I am glad that you have all had the opportunity to grow up here inside these castle walls. Not all of that change was easy, I know. I admire your diligence and perseverance. You will continue to grow and change all your lives. I want you to be prepared for that — to be flexible, adaptable, tolerant — and brave. Some of it will be thrilling and rewarding. Some of it will be difficult; for some of it, you will pay a price. I hope you will not be afraid of change. I hope you will rise to the challenge. And I wish you well.

Head Girl's Message

As students, we are taught the importance of a quality education. Knowledge attained through years of academic endeavours is a stepping stone to our future success. It is essential that we overcome all challenges in order to achieve a level of prosperity. Students at Trafalgar Castle are faced with pressures stemming from parents, educators and peers. We are instilled with the morals and values that are crucial to our development as independent and responsible young women.

To the graduating class of 1992, the moment that we have shared is a time that we will cherish for the rest of our lives. As it is in all areas of life, all good things must come to an end. So, we are left to ponder what the future may hold.

How do I, say good-bye to what we had
The good times that made us last, outweigh the bad.
I thought we'd get to see forever
but forevers gone away
It's so hard to say good-bye to yesterday.

Boyz II Men

Thanks for the memories.

Yvonne Jung

Gap Student

What an amazing time I've had! I looked forward to this year for many months and not once have I regretted my decision to come to Canada. I will certainly look back on this experience with plenty of good memories.

I have learned a great deal from being involved in many different things; from teaching E.S.L. to gymnastics to helping out with the house-staff (being a house-mother!) to working in the office and photocopying exams; I could have made hundreds of $$$$ . . . I appreciate the chance I had to take Mr. Kamcke's history class. I definitely learned a lot.

I experienced many things outside the castle walls as well as within. Long week-ends in Montreal and Ottawa were educational as well as fun. The cottage was just fun. And how can I ever forget my 4 day/night bus trip from Toronto to L.A. so that I could go skiing in California? Or my train ride across Canada so that I could go skiing in Whistler, as well as seeing the West Coast? (Take my advice — buses are a nightmare, so avoid them. Trains are just one big party). At the moment I'm looking forward to taking the train East during the summer and then travelling through the eastern states before returning home. No one can say I didn't explore North America to the max whilst I had the opportunity.

I've also enjoyed many trips with the school which have "broadened my horizons" even further. Cycling in Virginia was an excellent adventure, if not altogether painless, and I loved camping and Wonderland and Stratford and Les Miserables and Phantom and 2nd City — I could go on.

Communication was difficult at times when I found it hard to believe we were all speaking the same language. What are cleats, cankers and bangs? And what on earth is zucchini? My English/Canadian dictionary is quite extensive. Maybe I should Leave it for next year's Gap Student.

So, what did I miss about England? Daisies in the grass, milk in bottles, a short, relatively warm winter, the absence of commercials on T.V. and of course my family. The rain? Actually, I did.

What will I miss about Canada? Having 34 T.V. channels, the flicker, cheap nights at the movies, driving the school van, the good Trafalgar food (seriously! If nothing else, I'll be remembered for my huge appetite. It remains a mystery how one so small can eat so much), my day off, the snow, the autumn colours. My Friends.

Thank you everyone for a totally awesome year.

Sally

Editor's Message

As I look over the past year, I find it hard to believe that it has gone by so quickly. This book could not have been possible without the help of many hard-working people.

I want this book to reflect the surge of enthusiasm that was evident in 91-92, in all aspects of school life from Commencement to Trafalgar Day. I hope that this vitality will outlast all of us. The vitality of this school and the experience that it has offered us are unique. This book has a special meaning for those in the graduating class. As we glance through these pages after years, both laughter and tears will be remembered.

Thanks to all those who have assisted me in the production of Vox Collegii, especially my advisors, Mrs. Pollitt and Mrs. Metselaar. To next year's editor, good luck.

Student Fellowship is a service organization providing us an opportunity to help those less fortunate than ourselves. We were able to support children through the Foster Parents' Plan of Canada and the St. John Bosco Children's Home (Jamaica). Others were helped through our donations to the Denise House, Amnesty International and the Durham Region Horseback Riding for the Handicapped Association.

All Trafalgar students were involved in our annual charity bazaar early in November; we also collected clothing for street kids and supported a needy Whitby family at Christmas time. A 30-hour famine for World Vision was held at the school during April which raised $2,862.42.

It has been an extremely successful year thanks to the whole student body, faculty and staff. I'd like to say an extra special thanks to Sunniva Doyle and Mrs. Sigsworth for all their hard work and support.

After hours of wrestling with streamers and ladders
You begin to feel like nothing really matters
Until the time of 8:01
when the music starts to begin the fun
The lights dim and glitter is everywhere
The girls grow shy when at the opposite sex they stare
But the inhibitions quickly leave as the girls start to boogie and sing with glee all night long you see nothing but smiles
Everyone's shaking and grooving with style
The last dance is always romantic and slow as all the new love begins to show
The lights go on and everyone fades away but their memories of the night will always stay.

Amnesty International

Amnesty International is working for change. They are an independent world-wide movement of over one million people in more than 150 countries.

They seek the release of prisoners of conscience. These are people detained anywhere for their beliefs, colour, sex, ethnic origin, language or religion, who have not used or advocated violence.

They work for prompt trials for all political prisoners.

They oppose the death penalty and torture or other cruel, inhuman or degrading punishment of all prisoners without reservation.

Amnesty International is impartial. They do not support or oppose the views of the people whose rights they seek to protect. They are concerned solely with the protection of human rights.

The Amnesty group at Trafalgar this year was very informal; it pursued the goals of Amnesty International through the presentation of human rights chapels, through individual letter-writing campaigns and through the signing of petitions by the student body.

We hope that next year, the Amnesty group will carry on this work and even increase its activities.

Carter House

Of my four years at Trafalgar, this year has been the most memorable. There are many reasons, but one reason stands out more than others. Being House Captain has given me the opportunity to head up my house. This year I found myself doing things that I wouldn't have been caught dead doing last year such as covering myself from head to toe with red water-proof paint, dyeing my entire wardrobe and running shoes red. I would basically have done anything to promote spirit within my house. But as I look back at this year, I realize that it wasn't necessary to dye everything in my possession red because every "Carterite" had enough spirit and determination to make Carter one of the most successful houses this year. Sure there were the odd ones out who felt that they couldn't possibly come to house games, but I must say that some of the excuses were often very entertaining and convincing. If house points were awarded for creativity, Carter would definitely have won!! But overall, I felt that everyone put their best into this house and the results definitely reflect this effort.

We've actually been able to rise up to second place from last with which we had been accustomed for the past four years. Who knows, when all is said and done, we might even be first! But let's be rational!! I appreciate everything my house members have done this year and I know it wasn't always easy to cope with all the demands that were put upon you, such as the constant nagging to come to games, play rehearsal and to do chapel. But I cannot say the whole year was like this, because I feel that Carter has developed both spirit and unity. I'd like to thank Gillian Douglas for her constant help and friendly smile. Before I finish I'd like to give another special thanks to all the staff, especially Mrs. Grady who always seemed to agree with my rather eccentric ideas, but had this odd way of bringing me back to reality. Thanks to Carter house for putting up with me for a year. I'll never forget you guys!! I wish Robyn Keon all the best for next year. Always remember Sic itur ad astra!!

FOREVER EVER RAISE YOUR BANNERS HIGH, HIGH, HIGH!

Farewell House

If someone had told me in grade seven that I'd be on the Athletic Association by grade twelve, I would never have believed it. In fact, I probably would have passed out, not only from shock but also from the mere thought of actual physical activity!!! But, as this school year ends, so does my sojourn as Farewell House captain. Where does the time go?

Those who know me can hereby picture me frantically searching for something by Oscar Wilde to answer that question (Am I becoming predictable?) I think this will do, though it answer nothing:

"We can have in life but one great experience at best, and the secret of life is to reproduce that experience as often as possible."

To my house; being captain has definitely been an experience — you have given me the gift of humour, taught me humility and how best to grovel (re housegames). Even though I'll never get all your names right, your spirits will live on in your successors and my memories. Kim: thank you for your support and incredible calm — I need all the help I can get. And lastly, the best of luck to everyone, I hope you will always be as happy as I was the night of "THE EXECUTION"!!!

Hare House

Being Captain of the "best" house has opened up a whole new athletic and competitive world for me. I realize now that teamwork is essential, and that means the participation of the entire team. I've never seen so much spirit before, and was very lucky to have had the support and dedication of these wonderful individuals. There were so many 'regulars' at house games and the new girls were willing to give anything a try. The house games and events were a great success for us as a result of this incredible team effort. Not only do I have a great house, I have a tremendously strong and organized sub-captain and the full support of the Hare House faculty. Thank you everyone for making this a most memorable year for me and you!! All the best to next year's captain and sub-captain. I know you'll have another year of overwhelming success — Hare House is the best!

Maxwell House

It has been a great year Maxwell! To all of you dedicated Maxwellites who came to House Games, your enthusiasm is what kept us together! To those of you who hid or snickered home (And you know who you are!) Shame! To everyone involved in House Plays, Congratulations! A special thank you to Mrs. Metselaar for her tremendous contributions and involvement in "The Doctor's Duty".

Finally, most of all I would like to extend my deepest gratitude to Joanna without whom I would have been lost. Thank you Joanna for all your help and support this year! I would like to wish my successor, Alana Chadee, Good luck next year.

Activities

Commencement

I find it rather ironic that I should deliver a valedictory speech on how lucky we graduates were to attend Trafalgar on this . . . Friday the 13th.

We were lucky to attend such a facility that had so much to offer. We all had the pleasure of wearing blue and blue and presenting ourselves as Trafalgarites.

Being a part of Trafalgar meant something different to all of us. For me there are memories of May Day, especially 1991, Baseball, debates, Activity Days, trips to the Shaw and Stratford Festivals, Experience Week, Senior Camping weekend, and trying to explain to new girls that the A.A. is the Athletic Association and not Alcoholics Anonymous.

I'd like to extend greetings to the members of our audience at this time.

To the new girls:

I remember in Grade 9 listening attentively to the valedictory speech — a speech that was difficult to relate to without the Trafalgar Experience. Remember, you won't be a new girl forever and soon you'll be able to appreciate what a great school Trafalgar really is.

To the old girls:

You are our schoolmates who must remain. As we move on, remember us as we will remember you. You have the benefit of being in a safe harbour. Appreciate Trafalgar while you have the chance.

Take advantage of the opportunities that come with being in a small school. Look forward to another year, because it will go by very quickly.

To our parents:

Thank you for sending us here. We may have complained about going to Trafalgar, way out in the boonies of Whitby, four years ago, but now, with diplomas in our hands we realize the error of our ways. Thank you for choosing Trafalgar for our formative years and for your constant support and encouragement over the years.

To all of the faculty:

You've not only taught us the basics of reading, writing, and arithmetic, but also some of basics of life. Debates over capital punishment in history, Native rights in English, discussions on abortion on the baseball diamond, the Persian Gulf War in almost every classroom, and of course, philosophical discussion on everything in OAC Physics. This truly is teaching — making your students question, probe into, and search for the Meaning of Life. In future years, you won't become a blur of names and faces. Some of you will leave in our minds memories of not only teachers, but lifelong friends. Thank you.

And finally to you, the graduates of 1991:

Some of us have been together for four years, others only one, but, during those years we have formed friendships that I hope have been as meaningful to you as they are to me.

During the last four years, there have been many changes, both inside and outside of the hallowed halls.

In the "real world", wars broke out, governments crumbled, leaderships shifted, countries divided and formed, and of course taxes rose.

Even in our microcosm at Trafalgar, many changes have occurred. The junior science lab and computer room have been renovated, new carpets and curtains have graced our halls and walls, the common room has been improved and Mr. McClure's jokes have become exceedingly worse.

We've witnessed changes in the student body and faculty and changes in our friends and ourselves as we matured.

But, the changes won't stop here. The minute we left Trafalgar was the minute our lives changed. What we must remember is, with such rapid changes also must come rapid adjustments and we must still keep hold of who we are and where we came from.

All of us, no matter where we may go, came from the same Dear Old Trafalgar. We will each carry different memories and recollections, but they will be cherished alike by us all. In twenty years, when the class of '91 is all but forgotten inside Trafalgar, we, the class of '91 will always have Trafalgar inside of us.

"Thou only has our heart, dearest of schools." In grade 9, I scoffed at the lines of the school song, but now these words have meaning.

I would like you to go with some inspirational valedictorian-sounding words; but finding something original to say that isn't cliche is almost impossible.

Robert Kennedy said:

> "Each time a person stands up for an ideal, or acts to improve the lot of others . . . he sends forth a tiny ripple of hope, and crossing each other from a million different centers of energy and daring, those ripples build a current that can sweep down the mightiest walls of oppression and resistance."

My challenge to you graduates is to be the senders of hope. Get involved with something you believe in, whether it be Cancer Research, Amnesty International, or Greenpeace. Do something. I'm not going to depress you by telling you what a state the world is in, and I don't want to preach either. This is simply a challenge. If you believe that you can make a difference, you will. All one needs is hope.

We are young, bright, and fortunate. We live in a free society. Take advantage of your position. Dedicate time or money or both, but don't be an idler.

Perhaps in a few years, the fruits of our labour will pay off. If only one of you accepts my challenge, then that will be enough. The song our graduation class chose to sing as our anthem was "Imagine" by John Lennon. Let's stop imagining and start acting. On behalf of the Trafalgar Castle Graduates of 1991, I would like to thank you.

And in the immortal words of Liver Lips Louie of "Guys and Dolls": "Let's go home".

'Sisters', Kerry and Audrey can hardly decide whether to ask the tree for emeralds or pearls but 'mother' Karen, beats them to it every time. This was the scene that toppled the sofa!

Silver bullets are no match for the man of steel; Dierdre makes sure Stephanie gets the message. If you've got it, flaunt it Dee!

Wednesday, November 27 came at last and signalled the end of weeks of preparation; lines now came naturally, sets arduously painted could be assembled and taken down with stop-watch timing, costumes, lights, makeup all stood at the ready. With the introduction of our guest adjudicator, Alison Christ (class of '85) the dramas began to unfold.

Maxwell's 'The Doctor's Duty set the tone with Tara Singh as Dr. Lecci called upon to render a moral/professional judgment on a man who would rather die in the right than live to be punished. This was followed by Hare's 'The Wishin' Tree', a comedy revolving around the proverbial magic wishes which lead ultimately to greed. For their hilarious interpretation of the tree itself, Anju Mehta and Jodi Travers earned a special Adjudicator's Award.

Third up was Farewell's 'The Execution'. Ethics and justice were examined in this adaptation of a full length play which was lauded with honours at evening's end. For their skill in direction, Mara Drmaj and Neera Nundy received Best Director awards, for her characterization of Lancelot, Kristal Butler was recognized as Best Supporting Actress; and for their overall thespian competence, the group won the coveted awards for Best Technical and for Best Play.

Our final entry was Carter's uproarious comedy 'Heroes' which reaffirmed our childhood's faith in such comic book heroes as Superman and Lois Lane and the Lone Ranger and Tonto who came to living rooms in the early days of television.

Stephanie Simmons, now more aware of her eyebrows, was honoured with our Best Actress award, much to the delight of a rapt audience.

Congratulations to all who helped both on and off stage. Without the assistance of a good crew, no director or actor has a snowball's chance. This event served to unite the house members and encouraged the feeling of friendly cooperation which is Trafalgar at its best.

Definitely a successful and enjoyable event!!

A jubilant Farewell 'company', Tammy, Christina, Julia, Georgina, Sharron, Sonya, Asante, Kristal, Leah and (in front) Trish.

Congratulations to our Best Actress!

Junior Science Olympics

OSHAWA/WHITBY THIS WEEK, Wednesday, Feb. 19, 1992 PAGE A5 WH

Scientifically speaking, Whitby is well-balanced

Thanks to two enterprising students at Whitby's Trafalgar Castle School, Anju Mehta and Neera Nundy, the school held a Junior Science Olympics Saturday which saw many great Grade 7 and 8 science minds gathered together. Pictured here, Margaret Pak and Nanette Von Roeder discover that higher is better when it comes to stacking cards.

TRAFALGAR CASTLE TO HOLD JUNIOR SCIENCE OLYMPICS

Trafalgar Castle School in Whitby is holding its Junior Science Olympics Feb. 15.

Ten independent schools across Ontario will participate in the event for Grade 7 to 9 students. It runs from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Science Olympics were organized by two senior students at Trafalgar, Anju Mehta and Neera Nundy, to stimulate creative thought and ingenuity and to build scientific skills in younger students.

Students will participate in experiments, mind-teasers, trivia and solve problems. An awards ceremony will follow.

Special guest speaker is Oliver Haddrath from the Royal Ontario Museum.

30 Hour Famine

Margaret, Suzanne, Amy and Tara sleeping away their hunger.

The 30-hour famine was a great success! Those who participated worked hard to raise money for those who are less fortunate than we.

The famine was also a good learning experience. It taught us to value not only the food we receive each day but also to value friends. They were there to back us up as we, at times, struggled to cope with the overwhelming thoughts of a large, hot pizza with double cheese.

We came through energized, hungry and very satisfied!

May Day

As it's traditionally done Trafalgar has its May Day.

TRUTH, VIRTUE AND LOVELINESS are the characteristics of our May Court, selected by the entire school.

This year's May Queen was Anju Mehta from Brooklin, Canada. Stephanie Simmons from Unionville, Canada and Karina Cruz from Monterrey, Mexico as counsellors. The train bearer — Rachel Johansen, crown bearer — Melissa Dudley, scroll bearer — Bree Williamson.

Our May Day usually begins with the grand march followed by the May Queen's procession, presentation of the bible and pins and exercises in honour of the May Court.

An international food pavilion and a new activity "open house", which displayed all the various aspects of our school. The day concluded with a concert by the Celebration Singers.

Track And Field

This year, as usual, the weather cooperated and hot sunshine greeted our athletes as they warmed up on the field. Every student took part either actively as a competitor or by assisting in the measuring and record-keeping, making full use of this chance to win valuable house points. Once again the student-teacher relay was won by the teachers, proving that some things do indeed improve with age. Congratulations to all those who successfully won ribbons in their events.

These are our eager participants BEFORE, still clean and so EAGER.

Coordinator, Caroline Robertson oversees the scoreboard early on; she is trying to be impartial whilst still keeping an eye on her house.

Lindsay and Mrs. McKay looked after the results on the long trip.

Jackie and Tara check with Mr. Kamcke to get the latest results.

Joanna, Mara and Marsha, all wearing the invisible regulation 29 sunblock of course, soak up some rays.

These are the day's organizers — Clare and Caroline, along with Phys. Ed. teacher Mrs. Campbell, who put together a challenging program of events.

Rachel and Neera share a hug after a speech of appreciation for Neera's work in the Junior Locker Room — not the easiest duty, as you can probably imagine!

Gigi and Amy share a private joke — wonder if they're deciding where they will display all their ribbons!

Valedictory Address

Mr. Kamcke, Mrs. Smith, Miss Roberts, Honored guests, Faculty, Ladies and Gentlemen, students of Trafalgar, and fellow graduates:

Today the graduating class of 1992 looks upon the future with hope and aspirations for future achievement. We — the graduates, are leaving the protective home that Trafalgar has provided to begin a new life faced with numerous unknown challenges.

The challenges that we face leading the world into the twenty-first century are demanding, perplexing, and intriguing. These same qualities are virtues of Trafalgar Castle School.

As all of the 1992 graduates leave the familiar halls of Trafalgar and enter the world outside, there will be great demands for achievement, performance, and success. Trafalgar Castle has helped us to prepare for the expectations that will be placed upon our shoulders in our future lives and education.

Most of the women of the 90's are choosing to have professional careers. By the year 2000 the women of the graduating class of 1992 will be prepared to take on the challenges that the world has to offer. Trafalgar has motivated each of us to get involved in our school's community, to accept responsibility, and to assume numerous leadership positions. Trafalgar has also taught us the importance of co-operation to achieve happiness day to day. Trafalgar has taught us that if a goal is to be achieved you must get involved and participate to obtain the intended outcome. This type of motivation has resulted in a positive, self assured, graduating class.

Trafalgar Castle has instilled in each and every one of its graduates the confidence to excel and believe that we each can become prominent women in the 21st century.

Independence, motivation and hard work are essential in a competitive ever-changing world. As the year approaches the challenges and problems facing the world are complex and demand independent motivation to be surmounted. Through the guidance offered by the faculty and fellow peers, all graduates have become motivated to secure happy, successful rewarding lives.

The faculty at Trafalgar has given us the opportunity to grow and mature by participating in various aspects of school life. The faculty's dedication to furthering our education will never be forgotten. Many of the graduates will tell their grandchildren about how almost every Sunday they went to school to get Calculus help in hopes of passing their upcoming test. The time and dedication shown by the whole faculty made it harder and harder for us to dislike any of our classes.

The graduates will also never forget OAC English. We will always remember the oral presentations, the ISP, the short stories, the poetry seminars, the second short story, the pressure essays, and all of the other time-consuming English assignments.

I am sure that the economics students will never forget their wonderful three and a half hour final exam.

We, the graduates, will also never forget the extra time and effort that the teachers dedicated to extra-curricular activities. Many unforgettable memories emerged from our extra-curricular experiences and these memories will be shared and cherished by both students and staff.

Frustrations in Chemistry, orals in French, seminars in History, and unbelievably hard Algebra exams are other fond memories of high school at Trafalgar Castle.

All of the teachers at Trafalgar have taught us beneficial life long lessons. And as we leave the teachers and staff of Trafalgar we leave our mentors and friends. The memories and secrets we will cherish as each one of us moves on into a new life.

Trafalgar's Multicultural population has allowed each of us to learn, benefit from, and experience various cultures, traditions and philosophies. The multicultural differences in Trafalgar have exposed all of us to the importance and benefits of a cultural mosaic instead of a melting pot society.

Trafalgar Castle School has taught us many things other than how to write an essay. It has taught us what friendship and dependability really mean.

The small community at Trafalgar allows each student to get to know almost all of their classmates. Having classmates from around the world, means collaborating, and co-operating with people from other countries which over the years has led to close, timeless friendships. Now we all face graduation. Graduation, one of the most happy, and memorable events in our lives, a time to be joyous and ecstatic, but what about the friendships we have made? As we graduate from Trafalgar we are leaving the home of all of our friendships. We are leaving to venture out into another world.

As we graduates look ahead to our goals in the future, we try to forget that each of our goals is separate, and that we each must achieve our futures through many different means. Instead of holding on to the past we will look ahead to the future and cherish all of the intimate memories that we share. We each have grown and matured through interaction with friends at Trafalgar and the supportive shoulder of an old friend seems challenging and overwhelming. But for now, we all will leave our secrets in the immortal halls of the castle and our memory implanted in each heart of our fellow graduates.

As we review our memories we take with us the unforgettable traditions of Trafalgar Castle. We will never forget the traditional carol service that fills the chapel with our lovely warm voices once a year. The traditional Christmas poem given by Mr. Kamcke will always haunt those whom he mentions. The traditional fire alarm at the Bazaar will bring a laugh to our throats and a tear to our eye as we remember the lady in blue and yellow screaming fire, fire!

The memories of Trafalgar's overseas experiences are still vividly implanted in many of the graduates' hearts. In Russia some of our graduates felt right at home with their new acquaintences, and in Italy men scaling the walls of Venice will always remind us how important it is to lock your windows after dark.

The senior camping trip will remain an eventful memory as a two man pup tent was transformed over night into a six woman sardine can. This is one example of the togetherness we have learned at Trafalgar Castle. How could we forget house games and our persistent house captains? They would beg for attendance and then pray for victory. The memories will linger as we leave Trafalgar.

Each graduate has her own goals for the future. The idea of attempting to achieve a future by an unknown path with many challenges seems like a series of dangerous, confrontations. In the words of Oscar Wilde "An idea that is not dangerous is not worthy of being called an idea". Therefore each graduate of 1992 should reach out with enthusiasm and new ideas to meet the demands of the future.

Trafalgar Castle has seen each one of its 1992 graduates mature and strengthen throughout her time here. We, the graduates, leave Trafalgar today to embark on the rest of our lives. We leave with hope and determination for futures filled with happiness and success. We are leaving our home to challenge the future, and each individual graduate leaves with the confidence to achieve all of her goals.

On behalf of the graduating class, thank you Trafalgar for the experiences, memories, and friendships. Each graduate leaves here today with a smile on her face and a tear in her eye. We will never forget Trafalgar Castle School.
